DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

Authority: created by act of Sept. 2, 1789 (31 USC 1001). Many subsequent acts have figured in the development of the Department, delegating new duties to its charge and establishing the numerous bureaus and divisions that now comprise the Treasury.

Responsibility: formulate and recommend economic, financial, tax and fiscal policies; serve as financial agent for the U.S. government; enforce the law; and manufacture coins and currency. As a policy adviser to the President, the Secretary has primary responsibility for formulating and recommending domestic and international financial, economic, and tax policy; participating in the formulation of broad fiscal policies that have general significance for the economy; and managing the public debt. The Secretary also oversees the activities of the Department in carrying out its major law enforcement responsibility; in serving as the financial agent for the U.S. Government; and in manufacturing coins, currency, and other products for customer agencies. In addition, the Secretary has many responsibilities as chief financial officer of the government. The Secretary serves as Chairman pro tempore of the Economic Policy Council and as U.S. Governor of the International Monetary Fund, the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, the Inter-American Development Bank, and the African Development Bank.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE (IRS)

Authority: established by act of July 1, 1862 (26 USC 7802) as the Office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Responsibility: administer and enforce the internal revenue laws and related statutes, except those relating to alcohol, tobacco, firearms, and explosives. Its mission is to collect the proper amount of tax revenue at the least cost to the public, and in a manner that warrants the highest degree of public confidence in the Service's integrity, efficiency, and fairness. To achieve that purpose, the Service will encourage and achieve the highest possible degree of voluntary compliance in accordance with the tax laws and regulations; advise the public of their rights and responsibilities; determine the extent of compliance and the causes of noncompliance; properly administer and enforce the tax laws; and continually search for and implement new, more efficient ways of accomplishing its mission. Basic activities include: ensuring satisfactory resolution of taxpayer complaints, providing taxpayer service and education; determining, assessing, and collecting internal revenue taxes; determining pension plan qualifications and exempt organization status; and preparing and issuing rulings and regulations to supplement the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.

OFFICE OF THRIFT SUPERVISION

Authority: established as a bureau of the Treasury Department in Aug. 1989 and became operational in Oct. 1989 as part of a major reorganization of the thrift regulatory structure mandated by the Financial Institutions Reform, Recovery and Enforcement Act. In that Act, Congress gave OTS authority to charter federal thrift institutions and serve as the primary regulator of 992 federal and state-chartered thrifts belonging to the Savings Association Insurance Fund (SAIF).

Responsibility: adopt regulations governing the savings and loan industry; examine and supervise thrift institutions and their affiliates; take whatever action is necessary to enforce their compliance with federal law and regulations. In addition to overseeing thrift institutions, OTS also regulates, examines, and supervises companies that own thrifts and controls the acquisition of thrifts by such holding companies. The Office is a nonappropriated agency and thus uses no tax money to fund its operations. Its expenses are met by fees and assessments on the thrift institutions it regulates.
